Under the umbrella of Art Integrated Learning (AIL), the Hindi Department of Delhi Public School, Gandhinagar organized a unique activity for Class VI students titled "Live Presentation of Inanimate and Useful Objects." This activity aimed to enhance students' creativity and public speaking skills by allowing them to personify everyday objects and present their significance. Students learned to use their imagination to describe objects like books, pens, and chairs, explaining their functions in an engaging way. The activity also boosted their confidence, improved their language skills, and encouraged teamwork.

It was a valuable experience that helped students appreciate the usefulness of common objects while developing their communication skills.
